National Academy of Public Administration Announces
The 2018 Class of Academy Fellows

40 Leaders in Public Administration to Join the Academy

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- The National Academy of Public Administration today announced that 40 leaders in the field of public administration have been selected for the 2018 Class of Academy Fellows. Induction of the new Fellows will occur during the annual Academy Fall Meeting, which will take place November 1-2 in Washington, D.C.

“I am pleased to welcome the 2018 class of Fellows,” said Academy President and CEO Terry Gerton. “Our Fellows are nationally recognized for their contributions to the field of public administration and this year’s incoming class is no exception. They are an outstanding group, representing the best in public administration professionals, and will enrich our Fellowship, especially as we launch an effort to identify and address Grand Challenges in Public Administration.”

Selection of the Academy’s new Fellows follows a rigorous review of the individual’s contributions to the field of public administration and policy. A Fellows Nominating Committee, selected by the Academy’s Board Chair, makes its recommendations to the full Fellowship, which then votes on those individuals nominated to be a Fellow. The Committee was chaired by Dave Mader, Civilian Sector Chief Strategy Officer, Deloitte Consulting LLP.

The 2018 class joins nearly 900 Academy Fellows -- including former cabinet officers, members of Congress, governors, mayors and state legislators, as well as prominent scholars, business executives, nonprofit leaders and public administrators. Below is the list of new Academy Fellows:
